Globe Real Estate Office

F. L. TOOMBS, Manager

We buy large areas and subdivide same into good size residence lots. Note the advantage to our customers. First cost of lots is less than half what it would be if we were to buy a few lots at a time. Again, we survey the entire tract at once. Then, if there are any defects in titles, the work necessary to perfect title to one lot will cover one hundred lots.

That is the reason we sell choice lots properly surveyed with clear titles at 50 to 70 per cent of prices currently paid for the same class of ground

We also furnish abstracts; you are never safe without an abstract. With a complete transcript of the county records we are able to furnish our customers with complete information regarding any property in the county.

GRINDELL ALIVE THINKS BROTHER

Douglas School Principal Who Went to Explore Tiburon Believed by His Brother to Be a Captive Among the Seri Indians of Tiburon.

E. P. Grindell, district representative of the International Correspondence schools of Scranton, Pa., was a passenger out this morning after passing several days here on business for his company, says the Bisbee Miner. Mr. Grindell, who is brother of Professor Thomas Grindell of Douglas, who, in an unsuccessful attempt to explore the coast of Sonora is supposed to have lost his life, stated that he was no more convinced at present of the identity of the man found by prospectors in the neighborhood of the island and reported to be his brother, than at the time he denied the statement.

"I can, of course, not deny the fact absolutely that the body found may be that of my brother, but I am convinced that it is not. I understand that the news of the discovery was first heard in Douglas and a portion of my business there is to investigate the matter and find out for sure what there is to it.

"The report of the find that I saw, however, leaves my mind at rest in the conviction that it was not the body of my brother that was found by these men. As I read the article it stated that the body of a prospector from southern California had been found. Now my brother was not in southern California and was not from that portion of the country when he died, if he is dead.

"At times I entertain a hope that he may still live and be a captive on the island, which so far as anyone knows has never been explored by a white man but is supposed to be inhabited by a tribe of the fierce and gigantic Seri Indians and a few Yagis. It is a well known fact that this is their stronghold and that they issue forth on raids from it at low tide when they can easily walk over to the mainland. I try to believe this theory as to my brother's disappearance is the right one, but it is very unlikely that it is the case.

"I do not know whether I shall make any further search for the body or not. Possibly I shall in the future, but it is a mere matter of conjecture as to where it will be found, in case he is dead, and a most difficult matter too, after going to the place where he was last seen alive by his companion Hoffman, who was the only surviving member of the party which reached the point on the coast opposite the island, to find the body, as the shore back a short distance from the water is covered thickly with undergrowth, rendering it hard in the extreme to locate anything and almost impossible to find the bones of a man.

"My future action in the matter will be governed entirely by what I learn in Douglas."

GOVERNMENT AND COMMERCE

Criticism of the Methods Employed by the Bureau of Manufacturers

The bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor gives notice to American manufacturers who wish to sell things in South America, the far east and elsewhere, that it is proposed to supply them with samples of various kinds of goods that are in demand in those parts of the world.

These samples consist largely of cotton fabrics of various kinds, and they also include wall paper made in Scotland, toilet soaps made in countries of continental Europe, leather and gloves made in Germany, enameled pipe made in Cape Town, South Africa, and a calash which is believed can be grown profitably in the United States.

So the bureau concerns itself not only with supplying samples of merchandise sundries in demand in out-of-the-way countries, but with providing material of home growth entering into the manufacture of these notions.

It is noticeable that no effort is made to maintain and promote our trade with the countries which are by all odds our best customers—the countries of Europe—while much effort is made to undermine some small industries of those countries in order to increase sales to countries which buy very little from us, and to promote the making of some things which our manufacturers do not care to bother with.

The whole scheme is a trifling one, originating in a false economic notion—the notion that the way to make commerce profitable is to cut loose from our best customers and treat them with indifference and contempt or try to injure them in a small way, and to find a market for a lot of knick-knacks, that we do not care to make, in countries, in countries which can buy to better advantage of others.—Chicago Chronicle.

Putting a Little Prince to Sleep
During his short visit to Berlin Prince Olaf of Norway was idolized by his relatives there. On the night of the Norwegian royal family's departure the correspondent was waiting at the railway station, two hours before the time the train was to leave, when a royal carriage drove up. A lady and a gentleman stepped out, followed by a thin little boy—Prince Olaf. It was 7 o'clock—past the usual bedtime—and the prince had to go to bed on the train. He stepped into a compartment containing his cot.

Then the engine driver took his post and moved the carriage slowly to and fro, thus rocking the little traveler to sleep.—Dagens Nyheter.

MAN AND HIS BELIEFS.

The Seven Great Religions of the World.

The population of the earth at the death of the Emperor Augustus was estimated at 50,000,000. Today it is estimated that this globe has a population of 1,000,000,000. Out of this vast number of more than a billion and a half of human beings it is asserted that all but an infinitesimal fraction of 1 per cent believe in and worship in some degree a supreme ruler of the universe.

There are seven great religions in the world. The Christian religion has the greatest number of adherents, 563,000,000. Of this number 350,000,000 are Catholics and 213,000,000 Protestants. These two great divisions are subdivided into innumerable sects differing from one another on some point of dogma or church government. Next in importance comes the worship of ancestors and Confucianism, whose followers are 283,000,000 in number. This belief is confined almost exclusively to the Chinese and Japanese. In India there are 223,000,000 Brahmans. This form of religion has decreased somewhat during recent years, owing perhaps to the continual ravages of plague and famine in that country. But it still holds the third place among the seven great religions. Brahmanism is hard pressed, however, by the faith of Islam. There are 202,000,000 of these followers of the doctrines of Mohammed. The fifth on the list are the Polytheists, the believers in many gods, who number 130,000,000. The devotees of Buddha come next, 107,000,000 strong. These, too, have their stronghold in India. The smallest of the seven great religions of the world is Taoism, with 44,000,000 adherents in the Chinese empire and in Tibet.

The next greatest religion, in point of numbers, to Taoism is the belief of Japan, Shintoism. This has but 18,000,000 believers. The Jewish faith now counts but half that number of adherents. But, unlike the other great religions, the followers of the teachings of Moses are not centered in any particular country, but are scattered all about the world. Compared with the foregoing, the religions of the Parsees, while one of the most beautiful theologically, has about the smallest following of any distinct belief in the world, 150,000. This sect has its home in India and is best known to the outside world by its curious hair customs, the famed "towers of silence."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

You haven't as long to live as you used to have.

Some people are so agreeable that they are disagreeable.

Heroinism is generally a foolish act with a successful termination.

Some people not only insist upon giving advice, but asking questions at the same time.

When a married woman hears about women who are working on salaries she is liable to say, "Well, I earn all I get."

The surest way to tame a man is to take his money away from him. When a man has no money even a woman can run over him.

People talk of nursing their wrath as if they are bloodthirsty for revenge, but leave an angry man alone and in two days he will have forgotten what he got angry about.—Atchison Globe.

No Cure For Insomnia.

A sufferer from insomnia may work hard at physical and mental labor, yet the night cometh when no man can work. The insomnia, utterly fatigued, falls into a slumber—not a sound, refreshing, dreamless slumber, but a coma, lethargy, a torpor, born of fatigue. In a few hours the demon says "Awake!" and the insomnia starts instantly into waking, with bright, staring, wakeless, sleepless eyes. Is there no cure? None. Insomnia comes with age. You cannot cure your years. You used to sleep yesterday when you were young. "Not poppy nor mandragora nor all the drowsy sirups of the world can medicine thee to that sweet sleep which yesterday thou hadst."—San Francisco Argonaut.

East and West.

The chief distinction between the genius of the eastern civilization and that of the west, according to an oriental, lies in this: With you the individual is the hub of the universe—even charity begins at home with you—while with us of the east it is the whole, the state, not the individual, that we emphasize. An individual is nothing; the state, the whole, is everything. We sacrifice thousands of individuals, we sacrifice our children and our wives upon the altar of national honor, without hesitation, without regret.—Forum.

His Deep Grief.

Visitor—I do hope that poor Jack, your brother, does not grieve too much at my having broken our engagement. I feel sure he must be very unhappy. What did he say, dear? The Sister—Oh, he said what a lucky thing it was you broke it off this week instead of next, as it saved him from having to buy you a birthday present!

By the Pound.

Little Elsie—Mamma, how much do people pay a pound for babies? Mamma—Babies are not sold by the pound, my dear. Little Elsie—Then why do they always weigh them as soon as they are born?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Bigamy.

Effie—Papa, a man who has a wife too much is a bigamist, is he not? Papa—(thoughtfully)—Not always, dear.—Illustrated Bits.

Presence of Mind.

After the railway accident: "Did you get compensation, Bill?" "Yes; £5 me and £5 the missus." "Why, I didn't know she was hurt." "She wasn't, but I had the presence of mind to fetch 'er one on the head with me boot."—London Tatler.
